

Frequently Asked Questions about the FRAMLxchange

What is the FRAMLxchange?

FRAMLxchange is registered with FinCEN for 314(b) information sharing as an association of financial institutions. Any institution that is 314(b) registered can join FRAMLxchange — the industry's largest network of its kind for secure collaboration between financial institutions.

How does FRAMLxchange work?

Nasdaq Verafin provides Secure 314(b) Information Sharing technology for the FRAMLxchange network. This facilitates direct messaging and sharing of information between valid 314(b) contacts who have been automatically verified against the 314(b) registration list. You can send, receive and respond to requests for information as easily as you can via text message. Every collaboration is logged and reportable for auditing purposes.

How do I join the FRAMLxchange network?

Any 314(b)-registered institution can join the FRAMLxchange network by following these three easy steps:

- 1. Receive Email Invitation: You receive an email at the address provided on the 314(b) list, inviting you to the FRAMLxchange.
- 2. Join FRAMLxchange: Once you accept the email invitation, you will be asked to confirm the request, accept the terms and conditions, and join the FRAMLxchange.
- 3. Log in to FRAMLxchange: A confirmation email with secure login details will be sent, and you can follow the secure link to the FRAMLxchange login page.

As a FRAMLxchange member, you can log in at any time to send, receive or respond to requests. You can invite more 314(b) contacts to FRAMLxchange to collaborate and widen your network of peer investigators.
